

Is humanity truly free? Are there Universal Laws in effect that apply to human behavior? Does our knowledge or ignorance of these laws impact our collective freedom as a species? This video will explore these questions and our current understanding of Universal forces that affect the daily lives of each and every one of us.

Mark Passio is an independent researcher and public speaker from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Mark lectures on the topics of human consciousness, morality, freedom, occultism, symbology and spirituality. Many years of unique life experiences have afforded Mark an extraordinary perspective on the current human condition. Through his web site, WhatOnEarthIsHappening.com, Mark continues exploring these topics with a world-wide audience.

Mark grew up with a traditional Roman Catholic family background in South Philadelphia. During his grade-school years, Mark began questioning the beliefs and motives of organized religion, recognizing it as a system designed to control human thought and understanding.

His unanswered philosophical and sociological questions eventually turned to discontent and anger. This drove him to seek out what he considered at the time to be the polar opposite of Religion. His subsequent life path led him into membership and influence of what Mark refers to as the “Dark Occult,” – what most people might call nefarious Secret Societies. But what actually IS “The Occult”?

The word “occult” simply means “hidden.” The Occult refers to hidden knowledge - knowledge that is not commonly known by the vast majority of human beings. Occultism is a body of knowledge which encompasses the study of hidden laws of nature - laws which can not readily be seen with our eyes or measured by traditional scientific instrumentation.

Mark became aware that the groups of Occultists with whom he became involved were comprised of an eclectic array of people from every walk of life and every social institution, including politics, banking, media, law, military, law enforcement, entertainment, technology, medicine and education. Among their ranks were many people of great influence and power, all working together toward one common goal: to increase their own collective power at the expenses of everyone else’s rights and freedom.

Mark explains that we must understand that these Occult manipulators are actually master psychologists, who utilize their deep and ancient knowledge of the human psyche and the hidden laws of Nature to deceive and manipulate the masses of humanity into total subservience to their will. These Dark Occultists are able to do this because they have access to hidden knowledge to which the overwhelming majority of humanity still remains ignorant. This allows the occult manipulators to easily convert their knowledge differential into a power differential in our world.

After a profound crisis in conscience, Mark eventually made the free-will decision to cease his involvement in the world of Dark Occultism. He now teaches people the very information which these Dark Occult orders have been keeping to themselves in order to stay in power behind the scenes. The ultimate hidden knowledge which they have been holding back from humanity’s awareness is called Natural Law, and it is THE Secret of ALL so-called “Secret Societies” throughout human history.

To understand what Natural Law IS, we must first know what it most certainly is NOT. Natural Law is DEFINITELY NOT, and has ABSOLUTELY NOTHING to do with Darwin’s Theories on “evolution,” the Darwinian “Survival of the Fittest,” the so-called “Law of the Jungle,” or the so-called “Natural Order” of nature as a dog-eat-dog world. So what actually IS “Natural Law”?

The definition of the word “natural” is “inherent to, and having a basis in, reality and nature” - in other words, NOT man-made. The definition of the word “law” is “an existing condition that is both binding and immutable.” Binding means having an effect that cannot be escaped. Immutable means unable to be changed by anything or anyone.

Natural Law is a set of Universal, non-man-made binding and unchangeable conditions which govern the behavioral consequences of beings with the capacity for holistic intelligence. Natural Law governs the aggregate, or collective, free-will behavioral choices of entire populations by manifesting the consequences of the behaviors that we choose. The consequences which we receive are always dependent upon whether our chosen behaviors are either moral or immoral, or in other words, right or wrong. While we all have free will to choose which behaviors we will conduct, we are not insulated from the moral consequences of our behavioral choices.

Natural Law is a body of laws that operate within the un-seen or non-physical realm, so they may be considered to be occulted, or hidden laws of nature. These laws are built into the fabric of reality, just like gravity and electromagnetism. However, since these governing dynamics operate in the non-physical realm, human beings must incorporate a much wider world-view in order to recognize and accept the existence and operation of these laws. The understanding of Natural Law is absolutely NOT a belief system or a religion. The workings of Natural law can be discovered and understood through its observable, measurable and repeatable EFFECTS in our world. In other words, the understanding of Natural Law actually constitutes a SCIENCE of morality, which requires no belief or faith. Belief or disbelief in these laws is completely irrelevant, as they exist as surely as any physical law, such as gravity, which we take for granted in daily life.

Natural Law is also known as Moral Law, Cosmic Law, Universal Law, Spiritual Law, The Law of Cause and Effect, Consequentialism, The Golden Rule, Karma, and many other names.

Why is understanding Natural Law so important? The understanding of Natural Law is critically important to human beings who seek to live in freedom and peace together. Since Natural Law delivers the consequences of an entire society’s behavioral choices, based on whether their behavior was moral or not, it is of fundamental importance for human beings to know, with certainty, what the difference between right behavior and wrong behavior actually is.

A right is an action that does not cause harm to another sentient being. Most human beings can NOT provide that simple definition when asked. This is the primary reason that human beings are LOSING their rights and freedom. How can we possibly protect and keep what we can not even properly define?

A right must be defined in the negative. This means that we can arrive at an understanding of the infinite amount of rights we have by knowing the very small amount of actions that are NOT rights; actions which are wrong-doings; behaviors which DO cause harm to other sentient beings. This list of harmful behaviors includes murder, assault, rape, theft, trespass, coercion and willfully lying.

If we analyze each of the wrong-doings in turn we can find that they are all forms of theft, in one form or another. Murder is the theft of life which is not rightfully ours to take. Assault is the theft of another's well-being without right. Rape is the theft of free-will sexual interaction. Theft is the stealing of property. Trespass is the theft of the security of one's living domain. Coercion is the theft of free-will choice via violence or duress. And knowingly lying is the theft of necessary information which negatively impacts someone else's ability to engage in informed decision-making. These immoral behaviors are transgressions against Natural Law, and are all forms of theft which violate the rights of other sentient beings. Since all wrong-doings are forms of theft, the Natural Law of moral conduct can ultimately be summed up in two words: DON'T STEAL!

The Non-Aggression Principle is one of the main Principles of Natural Law. This Principle means that it is morally wrong to initiate aggression or violence upon other sentient beings. This brings us to another important principle of Natural Law, the Self-Defense Principle. Individuals always reserve the natural right to use physical force to defend themselves against acts of violence conducted upon them. Self-Defense is NOT, and should never be considered to be violence. Self-defense against violence is an inherent right of all sentient beings.

Most people would agree with the fact that the behaviors which cause harm to others are immoral actions. The problem arrives when we fail to hold EVERYONE to the same account regarding the morality of their actions. We must understand that EVERYONE has the same rights as everyone else, and there are no exceptions to this Law. If no individual possesses the right to perform a certain action because it results in harm to another, then NO ONE can "delegate" such a non-existent "right" to any other individual or group, and thereby magically turn a wrong-doing into a "right." In other words, EVERYONE possesses exactly the same natural, inherent rights as everyone else, and there are no exceptions to this rule for individuals in government, police, military, or any other societal institution. This is what is meant by equality under Natural Law.

If the laws of Man happen to align with the Natural Laws of morality, they are, by definition, redundant and therefore unnecessary. If man's law is in opposition with Natural Law, and therefore false and immoral, it can never be legitimately morally binding upon anyone. Because something is either legal or illegal does NOT make it moral or immoral. Recognizing this, we can then arrive at the correct understanding that all so-called human "authority" is morally illegitimate because it is based upon coercion and violence, which is itself immoral behavior.

The belief system that certain people can somehow possess legitimate authority over others, or that some people have more or less inherent rights than others, is one of the most fundamental causes of unparalleled suffering and death in our world. Authority is, and has always been, an untrue, illusory, illegitimate and immoral CLAIM, which is, unfortunately, accepted and believed in by most human beings with absolute religious fervor. The so-called delegation of authority to politicians, police, and military is inherently morally illegitimate, and cannot actually be done in nature, since it is impossible to bestow or delegate a “right” to someone else which no one possesses as an individual.

The only legitimate human interactions are those which are voluntary, meaning they are mutually agreed upon by ALL the involved participants. Man-made laws, including those which decree and enact behaviors such as taxation, prohibition, and licensure, are NOT voluntary in any way. They are commands of compliance, which are always backed by the threat of violence or actual violent behavior. Man-made laws are the arbitrary decrees of a ruling class calling themselves “government,” who are believed to possess a magical “right to rule.” Their subjects, the people living under their so-called jurisdiction, are believed to have a “moral obligation” to obey this ruling class’s arbitrary commands called “laws.” Understanding that such a system is entirely based in behavior that is coercive, violent and immoral, and conducted to bring human behavior into compliance with the will of a dominating ruling class, we can arrive at the unwavering truth that the term “government” is simply a euphemism for slavery.

And that is what the Human Condition truly is: Slavery. Slavery exists when certain individuals make a claim upon the body or the fruits of the labor of others, making them subject to them through violent and coercive means. Slavery can exist in an OVERT form, in which those being enslaved are physically imprisoned and subjected to the confiscation of ALL their labor. Or it can exist in COVERT form where mental manipulation is used to legitimize or justify the duress, coercion and violence that is used to perpetuate the immoral conditions in which people are unjustly kept.

There is a reason the condition of human slavery continues on and on. This immoral human condition is maintained by the occult ruling class manipulating people into a state of ignorance and confusion regarding the actual difference between Right and Wrong. The difference between right behavior and wrong behavior is OBJECTIVE, meaning it is NOT based upon the perceptions or opinions of human beings, but rather, such a difference in behavior exists in Nature, purely independently of subjective human perception or opinion. Morality does not change based upon feelings, religion, belief, location, time, or the preferences and whims of man’s law. These things have no bearing upon true morality. What is moral in one place and time is moral at all places and times, and what is immoral in one place or time is immoral everywhere and at any time.

The knowledge of this objective difference between right and wrong behavior is called Conscience. Conscience is the knowledge of whether any particular behavior in question does or does not cause harm to another, and therefore whether it is right or wrong. The problem is that most people do NOT possess this knowledge, or they are extremely confused regarding it.

To behave with right action is moral, and to behave with wrong action is immoral, yet this fundamental understanding is often grossly misunderstood. People do not get to decide what morality is. Morality is based upon whether an action causes harm or not. This dynamic exists inherently in the natural world. The inherent rights of human beings are their inalienable universal birthright, and can never be granted or removed by any action or process of mankind.

Our rights come from Nature, meaning they are pre-existing and inherent to Creation itself.

It seems so simple that we as human beings should willfully choose to take right action; to honor and respect the rights of others not to be harmed; to treat others with the same respect with which we expect to be treated; NOT to steal the life, well-being, property, rights, or free will of others. Yet it is not as simple as it may seem. True right action is elusive at best and deliberately ignored at worst. And this brings us to the crux of the matter, which is what Mark refers to as “The Law of Freedom.”

The Law of Freedom governs the states of freedom or slavery of entire populations of beings who possess the capacity for holistic intelligence, or the ability to comprehend objective morality. The Natural Law of Freedom dictates that, as a society collectively becomes more moral, they collectively become more free, and as a society collectively becomes more immoral they collectively lose their freedom and become more enslaved.

The freedom or slavery of an entire society is hinged upon whether that society behaves, in the aggregate, morally or immorally. Since most people still do not truly know the objective difference between right and wrong behavior, they are constantly making judgements that do not align with Natural Law. As more and more people act in such an ignorant capacity with respect to Natural Law, this conduct becomes a fundamental source of disorder and chaos in our society as a whole.

In other words, the Law of Freedom could be summarized like this: As the aggregate moral behavior in any given society increases, the aggregate freedom of the members of that society also increases, and as the aggregate moral behavior in any given society declines, the aggregate freedom of the members of that society also declines. Even more simply put: As morality increases, freedom increases; and as morality declines, freedom declines.

Therefore, human freedom is entirely dependent upon educated judgements that align with Natural-Law-based morality - the objective knowledge of the difference between right and wrong behavior. Believe it or not, you have just been given the SECRET OF SECRETS of all secret societies throughout human history.

Moral Relativism is the belief that there is no objective difference between right and wrong behavior. Moral relativists believe that morality is relative or subjective, meaning that right and wrong change with respect to time and location depending upon human perception and opinion, likes and dislikes, whims and preferences. Moral Relativism is the belief that human beings may decide for themselves what right and wrong are, and that humans are the arbiters of right and wrong based upon their likes and dislikes at any given time or place.

It is absolutely essential for humanity to recognize that Morality is objective, and that it is most certainly NOT based upon human perception or opinion. There is definitely an objective difference in nature between right behavior and wrong behavior, because right behavior does NOT cause harm to others, whereas wrong behavior DOES cause harm. These dynamics exist within, and are inherent to, the natural world.

The prevalence of Moral Relativism in human thought today is one of the main factors which solidify slavery as the current human condition. Since aligning human behavior with Natural Law hinges upon knowing the objective difference between right behavior and wrong behavior, if most members of a society accept that there is no such thing as a truth about those objective differences, that society can never consistently behave morally, and therefore they can never truly be free. True Freedom can never exist in a society that embraces Moral Relativism - a society where people believe there is no objective difference between right and wrong behavior. Knowing the objective difference between right and wrong, and then willfully choosing right action over wrong action is the foundational basis for the manifestation of the condition of Freedom. If human beings remove that foundation by declaring that there is no objective morality, they will NEVER be able to manifest a condition of genuine freedom in their lives.

Understanding true objective morality will help humanity to recognize the fundamentally flawed belief in the legitimacy of human “authority” and government. By doing so, all human interaction can become voluntary and free from the immorality of violence and coercion. If we want a world based in REAL freedom, we must understand that truth is independent of our perception and that objective morality exists and we can come to KNOW it. If people learn the true difference between right and wrong behavior, humanity can become and remain free. If human beings continue to refuse this knowledge, and continue to accept erroneous beliefs such as “authority” and Moral Relativism, humanity is going to remain enslaved.

We have a choice as a people. We can use our free will to change our behavior and bring it into alignment with Natural Law by choosing morally right action, or we can choose to behave immorally by choosing to perpetuate a system based in violence, coercion, and moral relativism. Will we continue down the path of slavery, watching our inherent human rights stripped from us little by little? Or will we embrace the moral principles of Natural Law and create a society where each individual’s, life, rights, and freedom are respected and protected because we each recognize our own inherent sovereignty, and the sovereignty of all other sentient beings? The Law of Freedom will manifest our reality in either direction based upon our collective moral choices.

Mark Passio’s unwavering dedication to delivering the message of Natural Law for a decade in every conceivable form has gone virtually unnoticed by humanity as a whole, and society continues its descent into immorality, chaos and slavery. Far too few understand or take heed of his warnings and even fewer speak out. Mark is seeking peers and allies in the war for our very freedom that is before us.

Our One Great Work is to end the Human Condition of slavery. This arduous task begins with the self and extends to our friends and family, our communities and our world. Speaking out is an extreme act of defiance because those who are currently in power seek to keep their power by exploiting the ignorance of mankind. There is so much human ignorance in the world today regarding the issue of morality that the situation can seem hopeless. Becoming aware of the level of ignorance that exists, we also must come to see that the only solution to the Human Condition of slavery is to spread the understanding of Natural Law and make it common-sense knowledge for everyone. The Dark Occultists who are currently controlling humanity seek to continue to hide this understanding, and to prevent it from becoming everyday common-sense knowledge on a world-wide scale.

Ultimately, this video is a call to action for all those who have gained an understanding of Natural Law and its principles. A LOT more teachers are needed to carry this message of freedom to the masses of humanity. There are not yet enough voices doing this. YOU YOURSELF need to get involved in the effort of spreading the knowledge of Natural Law. The solution lies in not just knowing it, but in what you DO to spread this knowledge once YOU have come to understand it. Start a podcast, publish a blog, make a video, contribute resources, do any and everything you can to make Natural Law common-sense knowledge to people all over the world. Only with a united effort will we have a fighting chance. We need more boots on the ground in this war for freedom.

Once you have expanded your worldview to encompass an understanding of the science of Natural Law, it becomes your personal responsibility to help others to learn these inherent governing dynamics of Creation. Our very freedom itself depends on it.
